AGING ... BETTER - A ROUSING SUCCESS!

On October 6th over 100 people attended Agging...Better, a Marin Villages Community Event sponsored by Novato Village at the historic Novato Town Hall. The program featured a scientist from the Buck Institute who discussed our current understanding of the aging process, and an entrepreneur/inventor who discussed how advances in technology can benefit seniors.

Agging ... Better was the result of the hard work of several members of the Novato Village Steering Committee spearhead by Lou Livoti, and including Jean Gunn, Marge Jackson, Roberta Dixon and Frank Keenan. The idea for the event was sparked by a conversation between County Supervisor,

Judy Arnold, a long-time supporter of Novato Village, and the Novato Village Steering Committee. Supervisor Arnold suggested the Committee apply for funding to organize an event that would be of interest to a large number of people while also creating greater awareness of the work of Marin and Novato Villages.

Lisa Brinkmann, Executive Director of Marin Villages, welcomed the group. She talked briefly about the Village movement and explained that the Village Movement is a grassroots response of seniors to help each other remain active and productive in the place they call home. Dr. Richard Caro, the first speaker, has over 30 years of experience at the intersection of technology and business — as startup CEO; scientist / inventor; investor; and advisor to emerging growth companies in fields such as medical devices; telecom; digital health; and photonics. Dr. Caro is Co-founder of Tech-enhanced Life, PBC — a public benefit corporation whose mission is to improve the quality of life for older adults and their families through the use of technology.

Marin Villages is considering starting its own Longevity Explorer Circle with Dr. Caro. If you are interested, give the office a call.

After the break, Marin County Supervisor, Judy Arnold, said a few words of greeting. Novato Village member, Marilyn King, described the many ways being a member enhanced her life. Novato Village volunteers not only made it possible for her to get to her many medical appointments, but also helped with numerous household tasks. Novato Village Volunteer, Lolma Olson, talked about the pleasure she gets from volunteering. She’s met and befriended so many interesting people she would never have gotten to know. She especially appreciates the flexibility of being a Marin Villages volunteer, because unlike many other organizations, it allows her to fit volunteering into her own schedule.

The second speaker, Dr. Jose Alberto Lopez-Dominguez, is a researcher at the Buck Institute for Research on Aging and gave an overview of the basic research being investigated. He focused on his own field of research, called cellular senescence, the natural ability of cells to stop malignant growth. Dr. Lopez-Dominguez encouraged everyone to sign up for a tour of the Buck Institute offered every Thursday morning as the best to understand the full range of the work being done there.
